Join us for an interactive workshop to help you get started publishing the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning. Dr. Hardin, Dr. Marlow, and Dr. Nag will share their experiences and tips for getting started and how to prepare for publishing your work. They will provide information and tips on how to find possible journals for submissions, how to decide on a project or question, and how to prepare and collect your data. You will leave with a plan for getting started with your idea for your courses, your teaching, and your publications.
